UNDERTAKE PROJECT TO IMPROVE TOWN WATER PUMPING SYSTEM

LAC LA BICHE—According to town foreman, Hervey Marchildon, a project is soon to be undertaken which involves raising the intake pipe where the town takes its water from the lake.

LAC LA BICHE—According to town foreman, Hervey Marchildon, a project is soon to be undertaken which involves raising the intake pipe where the town takes its water from the lake.

The 10-inch pipe which extends 182 feet from the pump house located on the shore of the lake, is now placed directly on the bottom of the lake bed, and has gradually become partially submerged in silt.

During the past summer considerable trouble was experienced when the slots in the pipe would not admit a sufficient flow of water for the pumping system.

Plans are now under way to lift the pipe and place it on a concrete block, thus keeping it off the bottom of the lake. The job is to be undertaken later in the month of March so as to take advantage of the thick ice in order to move equipment to the spot.

In order to reach the pipe a channel will be cut in the ice, which is now about three and one-half feet thick, and a hoist will be used to raise the heavy pipe. The project will be supervised by Associated Engineering Services Ltd. of Edmonton.

Federal Building Work Proceeds On Schedule

LAC LA BICHE—Steady progress is being made on the $150,000 federal building under construction here, with the bricklayers having finished their part of the work and the roofing crews to begin this week.

The roofing should be completed in about three days, and insulating and plastering will come next. Local carpenters employed on the job are Tom McCullough, Peter and Paul Gaberal, and Fred Monavich.

The contract is proceeding according to earlier estimates and should be completed by the latter part of April or early in May, according to the foreman for Haddow Construction Co., who have the general contract.

Michael Maccagno Raps System Of Education

EDMONTON (BUP) — The debate on the reply on the throne speech was concluded last evening by Arthur Dixon (SC-Calgary), and the Alberta house immediately prepared for a special night sitting for the introduction of the 1957-58 budget.

Mike Maccagno (Liberal-Lac la Biche) told the assembly there was something wrong with the Department of Education. As an example, he cited a case of two high school students. One was an average student, who completed his Grade 12 successfully, while the other began as an honor student in Grade 9 and hardly managed to get through his matriculation examinations.

If exams were given in Grades 10 and 11, he said, the brilliant student would have continued with enthusiasm, rather than wishing to get a job. The Liberal member declared the government should forget the cost of examinations in Grades 10 and 11.

W. J. Kirby (PC-Red Deer) said mentally superior students "were being neglected, if not actually discriminated against." "If any proof were needed to the inadequacy of our secondary school system in meeting the ever increasing demands of our new industrial economy for scientifically and professionally trained minds, it can be found in a cursory glance at the notice boards in the hallways of the University of Alberta," he said.

Kirby added it will be the task of a proposed competent body to conduct a comprehensive survey of primary and secondary schools.

Board Members Discuss Route To McMurray

LAC LA BICHE—James Stewart and Michael Hamar flew to McMurray last weekend as representatives of the local Board of Trade. Purpose of the trip is to meet with officials of McMurray to discuss the route of the proposed road to that area.

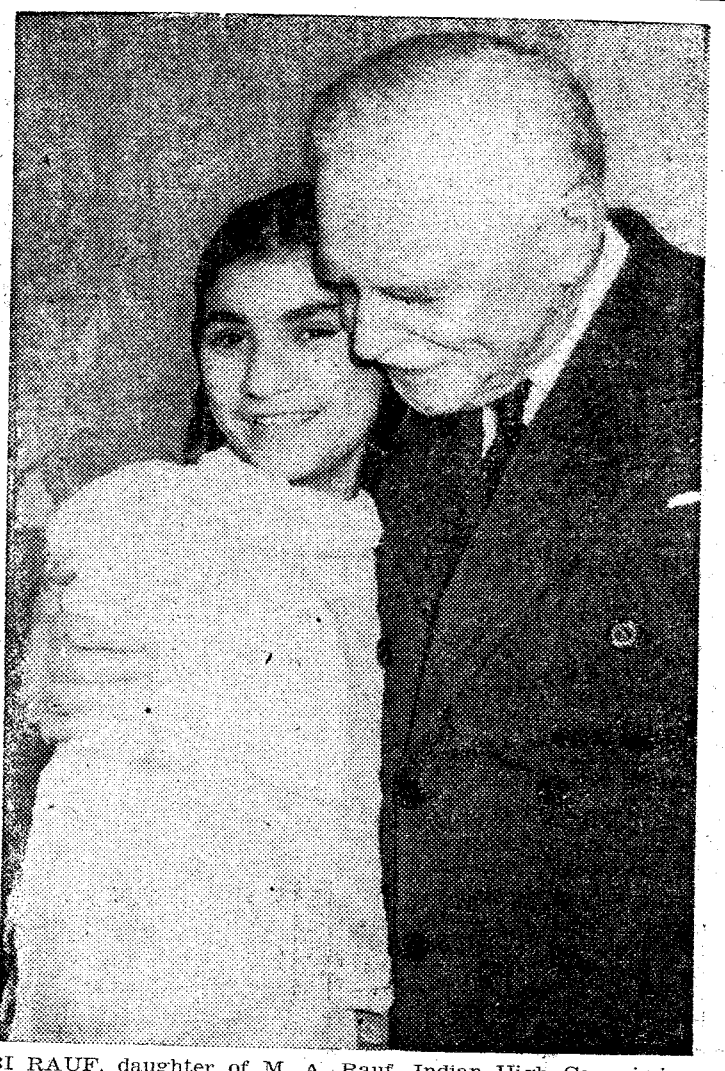
Petitions are currently being circulated throughout this district asking that a route following a line between the roalroad and the Athabasca River be taken for the road. It is felt that this would be the shortest distance and would also open up certain valuable timber areas now inaccessible.

Houses Moved To Rich Lake

BRIEREVILLE — Feb. 16 was house moving day here.

John Hogevit Jr. bought and moved the house, formerly owned by Ernest Blais, to his own land in Rich Lake area.

Rich Lake Anglican Mission bought and moved the house, formely owned by Chester Whelen, for a church in Rich Lake.



BIBI RAUF, daughter of M. A. Rauf, Indian High Commissioner to Canada, and Mrs. Rauf, shares birthday greetings with Prime Minister St Laurent. Both were born Feb. 1. Mr. St. Laurent is 75 and Bibi 14. They discovered the coincidence at a recent reception given by Bibi's parents.

MLA Urges Public Works Program For North East Alberta

By RICHARD COTE

EDMONTON (BUP) — The Liberal MLA for Redwater, Alfred Macyk of Sprucefield, told the Alberta legislature at a night sitting last week there had been difficulties in the constituency during the year that he felt should be brought to the attention of the house.

"The public works program of the M.D. of Smoky Lake and County of Thorhild was short, and had an effect on the progress of both local governments," he pointed out. "This should be noted as the unforeseen expenditures and the cutback of the road program was necessary if the mill rate was to be held," Mr. Macyk added.

Due to a shortage of engineers, investigations of drainage problems which arose could not be carried out by the department of water resources — lending the same problems to arise again this year, the Liberal party whip declared.

Mr. Macyk told the house forest protection is badly needed in Alberta. "After the experience of last year and subsequent years, it is time the government realized the staggering losses which this province is suffering due to lack of forest protection and fire supression," he charged.

"I am waiting with interest to hear a report on the Rosemary Telephone and Electric project built on one line," Mr. Macyk said.

Speaking of the department of highways, Mr. Macyk told the assembly a highway is needed in northeastern Alberta. "May I again ask the minister of highways to give consideration to this," he asked. "Last spring highway No. 28 beyond Smoky Lake was impassable," he charged. "This is not just or fair in view of the heavily settled area and the years it has been settled. There is great need for an all-weather road and I hope there will be no further delay.

It is time the government awakened and realized the unfairness that the state of northeastern Alberta is in and the years of neglect it has taken, Mr. Macyk charged.

Many predictions have been made during the course of debate this session. "I will make mine short: We will have a dry spring with high winds, gusty with dividends here and there," the Liberal whip concluded.

Three From Area Win Trophies

PLAMONDON — Willard Gauthier, Joseph L'heureux and James Rudiger won the trophy cups awarded by Farm and Home Improvement Plan.

The cups were awarded at the general meeting sponsored by Plamondon Agricultural Society.

About 20 women gathered at the school and enjoyed the talk on home decorating given by home economist, Doris Montalbetti.

The men met in the parish hall, where district agriculturist, J. S. Lore, spoke on rental agreements.

A film on beautifying the farm homes was shown to both groups.

Three Elected To Town Council

Results of the Monday elections in Lac la Biche returned Mike Maccagno to the town council and elected two new members, Harry Lobay and James Hamar.

Hint Of Fashions To Come Given As Fur Prices Vary At Market

First hints of possible coming changes in milady's fur tastes are generally reflected at the fur sales and auctions held at several points in Canada periodically during the year.

Edmonton is one of seven major centers in the dominion hosting such events. Buyers from leading fur salons in London, Paris, Italy, New York, Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg attend most of these auctions.

More than 144,000 pelts were offered at such a sale held in Edmonton early in February. A return of some $150,000 was recorded as a result of disposal of 130,000 of the total offered.

While many furs are disposed of by direct sale by the trappers and buyers of the north, the auction sales are closely watched for more immediate indications of price and type trends.

Mink ranchers, traders, trappers and country buyers consign lots of furs to fur brokerage firms for sale on a commission basis. Buyers are given pre-sale opportunity to view the pelts, thus helping assure top market prices to the producer.

Prices paid at the recent Edmonton sale were generally higher than last year although several types of ranch mink were down as much as 50 percent from the previous two years. The drop was attributed to increased production which crept ahead of current consumer demand.

Wild mink prices remained fairly constant. Sale of long-haired furs was up over former years, indicating a possible style trend.

Ranch mink drew up to $30, depending on type. About 40 percent of some 18,000 pelts offered were sold. Wild mink sold from $5 to $43. Some 1,200 marten skins

Weasel Hunting Tactics Vary

BRIEREVILLE — Shooting and trapping weasels has been made easier for some residents here by visits of the animals to homes.

Andy Kaufman shot one weasel in his home, and Mrs. Thompson trapped one that had been roaming on the porch, in a quart sealer.

Briereville

S. Young, Lindale, recently visited his daughter, Mrs. George Price and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Blais and family, Edmonton, attended the funeral of the infant, Richard A. Whelen.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whitford are home again after spending some time with their daughter in Edmonton.

Surprise Party For Brother, Sister

CRAICEND — A surprise birthday party for Johnny Salahub of Edmonton and his sister, Victoria, was held in the hall here on Feb. 8. Johnny, whose birthday was on Jan. 15, was surprised when he came from the city to attend his sister's party and found that it was in his honor, also.

The party, prepared by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Salahub of Craigend was a great success, attended by approximately 200 guests. Dancing and lunch were enjoyed. Johnny and Victoria received many lovely gifts.

Rent an Alberta Island

The modern Robinson Crusoe cannot have his yearning for his own island fulfilled here in Alberta. There are no islands for sale and there are very few known to be privately owned.

Nonetheless, Alberta has numerous islands where plots can be leased for periods up to ten years. The Department of Lands and Forests has no hard and fast rule in granting leases. Each application is investigated and judged individually. This practice assures that no exclusive rights are granted to one person, thus barring others from acquiring desirable adjoining locations.

While the department's policy is aimed at avoiding exclusiveness, there are exceptions. For instance, groups such as Boy Scouts may lease the whole of a small island because their training program better fits such an environment. In the sparsely settled areas of the north, some remote island may be leased to an individual for commercial purposes such as mink ranching. Some of the larger islands scattered over the province even leased for cattle grazing.

Chiefly because of the problems of transportation, Albertans up to this time have shown not too much interest in establishing summer homes on islands. However, for those who seek a higher degree of seclusion than their consorts on the mainland, the door is still open.

YOUR ALBERTA

Your Future is Here... In Alberta

IN CASE YOU'RE WONDERING how there could be more books in your hometown community library, you might want to check into the opportunities of The Library Act. Last year, there was an appropriation of $67,000 set aside to administer the Act. A grant system is provided to approved libraries consisting of an establishment grant of $1.00 per capita for regional libraries and annual grants of 35 cents per capita or matching book grants of up to $500 for books and $50 for periodicals.

OIL WELL DRILLING has been called sometimes a risky business from the financing standpoint. It also could be a risky business for the men engaged in production were not regular and extensive safeguards employed by the drilling companies and generally enforced by their own safety men. Despite this supervision there is a feeling of responsibility to Alberta citizens on the part of the Department of Industry and Labor, in seeing that these safety factors are present and operating. As result, there is a regular system of inspection, from derrick top to sludge pit, undertaken by inspectors from the department. The result is a remarkably low incidence of accidents for oil workers in this province.

THIS IS ONLY ONE INDUSTRY that has its safety precautions checked and rechecked by the department. All elevators, all factories where there are employees; in fact, all facets of industry in this province have their respective working conditions regularly under the eye of the Department's inspection branch.

Watch for "Your Alberta" again next week.

Alberta's Record Budget

Provincial Teasurer E. W. Hinman has brought in what may go down in history as the Big Bonus Budget. Out of the $285,000,000 which it appropriates for government spending in the next twelve months, the giveway ranges from dividends for qualified citizens to loan funds for young farmers, grants to education and the usual big time aid to municipalities, welfare and similar recipients.

History was made in the provision of "natural resources participation dividends" amounting to $11,000,000. These will be paid on an annual basis from oil and gas revenues, to every qualified citizen aged 21 and over. The amount to be paid depends on the number eligible, but it is expected the payment will range between $20 and $30.

The long awaited scheme to help young farmers get established on the land was also provided for, with $2,000,000 going into the starter fund of a rural credit union. Another $1,000,000 will go into a new fund for lending to rural telephone companies and the same amount will bolster the rural electrification revolving loan fund.

Municipalities will receive an estimated $50,000,000 in various grants in the first year of "new deal" transition. The grants will be more than sufficient for municipal operating costs. A further sum of $35,000,000 will be earmarked for the purchase of local government debentures by the new Municipal Finance Corporation, which will be the key figure in this field henceforth. An appropriation of $11,900,000 is set aside for direct school construction grants.

Considerable sums are to be voted for health and hospital programs, indigent relief, highways, pensioners, medium and hospital care, maternity, and all the fields normally covered by provincial aid.

With so much going to so many, this is indeed a Big Bonus Budget, one which reflects the wonderful good fortune of Alberta in natural resources, climate, and energetic people. The government must feel a certain amount of self gratification in being able to come forward with such a lavish program.

Manna From Manning

As the publisher of this newspaper suggested two weeks ago, Premier Manning could continue paying direct municipal grants out of ever-growing oil revenues, or he could make a start on the original $25 a month dividend idea by taking this oil money and paying every citizen $25 a year.

"I leave it to you," said T. W. Pue, "to figure out the wide and all-embracing advantages to the future preaching of Social Credit political gospel, if the dividend should be paid".

Now Treasurer Hinman has announced it will be paid and already the Province is divided on the merits and demerits of the hand out. Is it a bribe—using the citizens' own money to buy their votes? Is it a bursary —intended to pay their way through a study course of Social Credit? Is it a real bonus—a share of the profits from natural resources exploitation? Will it do any more good in private hands than in municipal hands? Why were native born teenagers attending high school left out, when New Canadians of five years' residence (and voting rights) were left in? The foregoing are some of the questions now being asked.

Sometime in the distant future all these natural resources are going to be used up. Pity the government in power that has to announce abolition of this Manna From Manning.

Note and Comment

Once upon a time there was a merchant who did not believe in advertising.

Most people judge their fellowmen by the way they accept them and their ideas.

The world has too many people who worship totem polies, if you know what we mean.

Social Credit Chances

All party leaders seem convinced that we will have a federal election this year, probably not later than June, and are busy mending their political fences. A few parliamentary veterans like Bucko McDonald of Ontario, Angus MacInnis of British Columbia, John Decore and W. Wylie of Alberta have announced their retirement from politics and won't be in the race.

It is conceded by most observers that the Liberals will be returned with a reduced majority, that the Conservatives will increase their numbers, and the two splinter groups are on their way out.

Social Credit leaders do not agree with this and have broadcast far and wide that they expect to form the next government. They have, however, talked this way in every election since 1935, with the following result:

In 1935	they	elected	17 members
In 1940	they	elected	10 members
In 1945	they	elected	13 members
In 1949	they	elected	10 members
In 1953	they	elected	15 members

There are 265 members in the House of Commons. In the last federal election the popular vote was, in round figures:

Liberals	2,800,000
Conservatives	1,700,000
Social Credit	308.000

In our estimation, the only chance Social Credit has in the next two or three elections (it couldn't be in 1957) to win would be if Premier Manning were to step out of Alberta politics into the federal wing.

Social Credit supporters east of Alberta seem to get nowhere, and it's mostly their own fault. Their frequent outbursts of anti-Semitism, their support of McCarthyism and their funny money gimmicks, are frowned on in the central and eastern provinces.

We have heard very little as yet from the CCF, and they will sorely miss influential stalwarts like Angus MacInnis.

Politics Take Toll

Politics as practised today places a great strain and takes a heavy toll on those engaged in the same. This is especially true of our party leaders.

Liberals were concerned when the prime minister returned from his trip around the world a few years ago looking ill, although he appears to have fully recovered.

George Drew's health deteriorated to such an extent in the last few years that he was forced to retire.

Social Credit leader. Solon Low, had a heart attack a year ago and just a few days ago the CCF leader, M. J. Coldwell, also had a heart attack, just how bad is not known.

With an election in the offing, this is a serious situation for the CCF. Now that Angus MacInnis has announced his retirement and Ross Thatcher has joined the Liberals, the CCF are in bad shape.

Few businessmen, and only a small group in the House of Commons agree with his political theories, and yet Mr. Coldwell commands the respect of all who know him, and especially members of parliament. In debate, parliament has known few speakers who have presented their arguments with more thorough preparation, in more logical order, or with greater fluency. We all wish him a complete and speedy recovery.

MORE ON FREEDOM

In reply to "Lover of Freedom", let me point out some of them: 1, freedom to accept what is offered for what you sell; 2, freedom to pay freight on all you sell; 3, freedom to pay freight on all you buy; 4, freedom to accept grades offered you on grain, meat, eggs, etc.; 5, freedom to accept higher freight rates, gas and machine repairs, food, clothing and everything you buy; 6, freedom to accept a reduction on anything you sell; 7, freedom to hold your grain till the quota is open; 8, freedom to have grain surpluses when there are millions starving in the world; 9, freedom to join the union or get out if you work at any of a great many jobs in industry; 10, freedom to help build or destroy; 11, freedom to join the FUA even if you don't see the benefits; 12, freedom to pay what is asked for machinery.

FREEDOM AGAIN

Replying to "Lover of Freedom": No doubt the spectacle of people seeking freedom in this country has been imported for propaganda purposes. How many had their travelling expenses paid while seeking freedom here? Please get an FUA constitution and read up on it. DAWN—1957

Here's a poem I clipped out of the Vegreville Observer and which I think would be appreciated by readers of your paper too:

Listen to the exhortation of the dawn.
For it is life, the very life of life.
In its brief course lie all the verities
And realities of your existence;
The bliss of growth,
The glory of action,
The splendor of beauty;
For yesterday is but a dream,
And tomorrow is only a vision;
But today well lived
Makes every yesterday a dream of happiness,
And every tomorrow a vision of hope.
Look well therefore to this day!
Such is the salutation of the dawn.

REALLY SICK AND TIRED

Letter to the Editor in Vancouver Sun

Do you mind if I sound off about a few things I don't like about this country and your particular newspaper?

I'm sick and tired of your editorials asking for more immigrants so as to increase your circulation.

I'm sick of Jack Scott's love for any man as long as his skin isn't white. Also his stand on immoral motion pictures and books. There is a difference in censorship for decency and censorship for free thinking even if he can't see it.

I'm tried of Harold Weir using words that he has to look up in a dictionary to find himself.

I'm tired of you, too, throwing my letters in the waste basket because they don't conform.

I'm sick to death of our schools teaching unnecessary subjects, wasting so much time on history, sports, foreign languages, roll calls. Our schools send students out who know Latin better than good old English. There are only a few subjects such as maths, science, and English that are necessary, and a man should be out of school when he is 12 learning a skill when he still young enough to absorb.

Anyone knows we are turning out a bunch of high school graduates that can't even earn a living because they waited too long in school to learn a skill.

I'm sick of these radio giveaways and the bunch of goons that follow them.

I'm sick of nuts who believe in flying saucers with little men on them.

I'd like to see a free parliament with no parties and a little free discussion.

I'm sick of any one who doesn't agree with me.

I'm sick of Vancouver, the land of sheep, sheep and more sheep.

I'm sick of people who turn God off and on with their hypocritical Sundays, when all they really want is a quiet day of relaxation. And if you don't print this I'm going to buy The Sun and fire you.

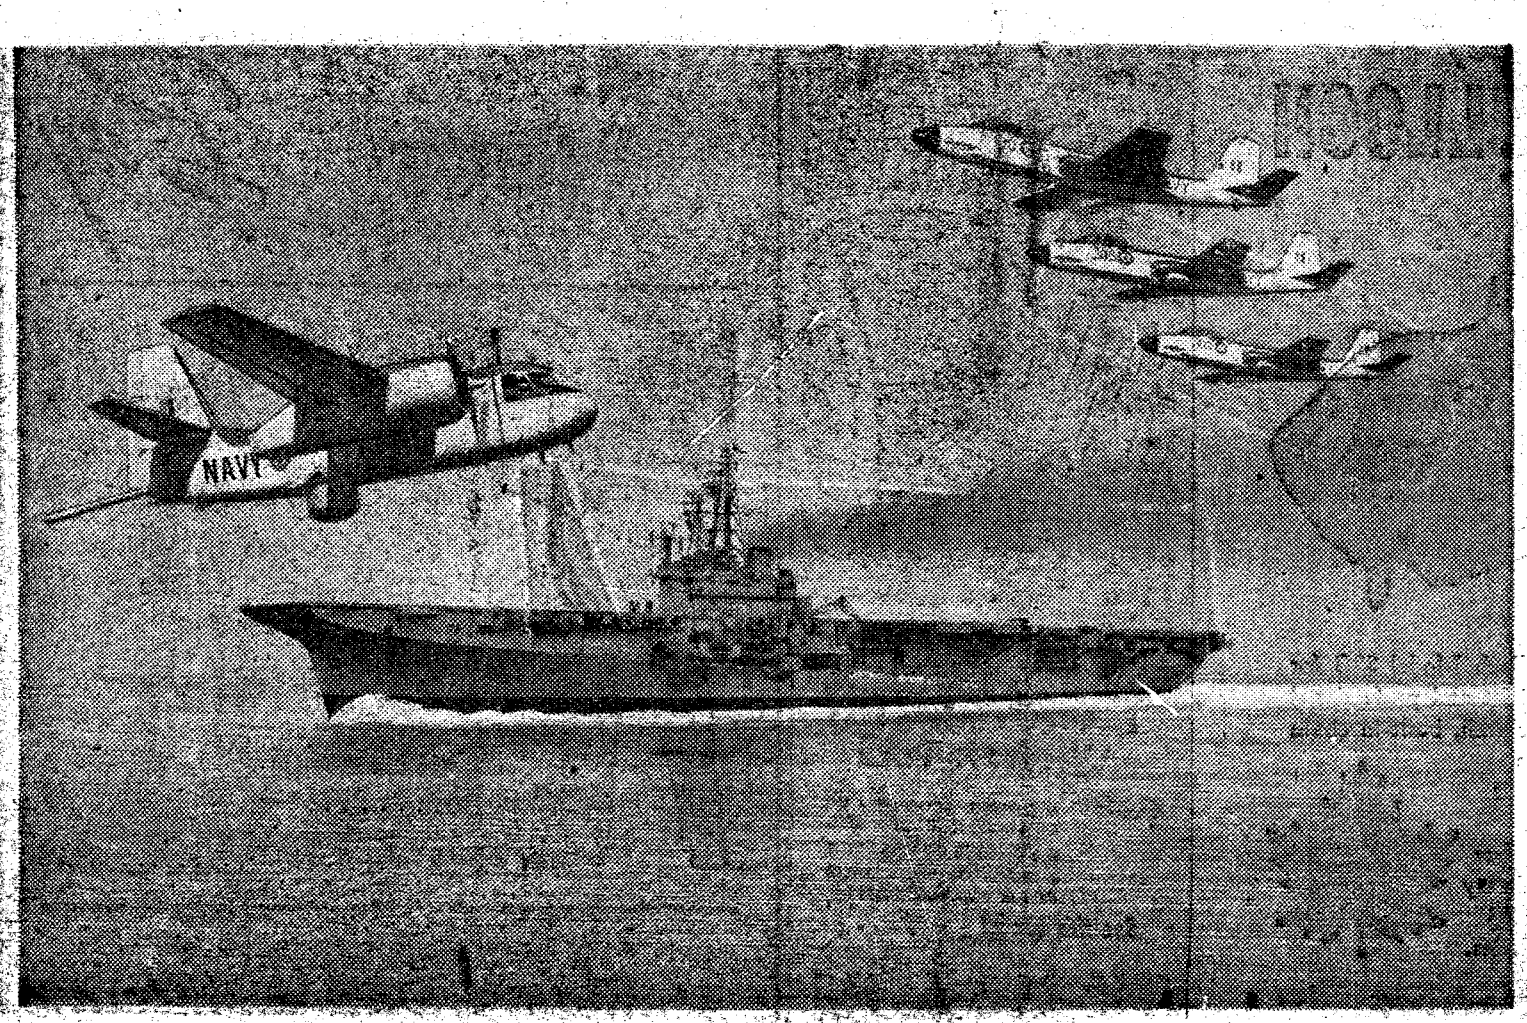
British "Trade-Mark" Blown Up With Statue

As a reminder that they were in Port Said, British troops departed leaving Union Jack and French Tricolor waving from hand of canal builder Ferdinand de Lesseps in Port Said harbor The flagpoles were soldered to statue.

The Egyptians said they would remove the flags — and they did. The statue resembles the detonation of an A-bomb as it is blown up. It was regarded by the Egyptian government as a symbol of foreign imperialism. More than 800 Egyptians screamed their approval as the 80-foot statue, which stood at the northern terminus of the waterway, was destroyed.



NEW TEETH FOR NAVAL AIR — HMCS Bonaventure was commissioned at Belfast, Northern Ireland, the first Canadian aircraft carrier equipped with jet fighters and new anti-submarine aricraft. The ship carries the latest flying facilities, including the angled deck, landing mirrors and steam catapult. This composite photo shows the aircraft that will fly from her flightdeck. To the left is the CS2F-1 "Tracker" anti-submarine aircraft and to the right are F2H-3 "Banshee" jet fighters. The Hon. Ralph Campney, Minister of National Defence, was guest of honor at the commissioning ceremony and Mrs. Campney was the ship's sponsor. The ceremony was attended by the Lady Margaret Wakehurst, wife of the Governor of Northern Ireland, by Vice-Admiral H. G. DeWolf, Chief of Naval Staff, and other senior naval officers of the RN and RCN.

Songstress Shirley Harmer was recently elected one of the ten best-dressed women in Canada by a nation-wide poll of impartial fashion experts. As everyone knows, Shirley is the star of CBC - TV's weekly, revue "Showtime".

"TRUTH" — by Florence Wyle, R.C.A., noted Canadian sculptor, is the Calvert Albert Regional Trophy in the Dominion Drama Festival awarded to the best play produced at the Regional Drama Festival held at the Capitol Theatre, Lethbridge. In addition to the Calvert Trophy, the winning group also received a $100 cash award.

Belleville Elects Its First Woman Mayor — The wife of a doctor, Mrs. James H. Forrester, 45, is the first woman in Belleville, Ont., to seek and win the mayorality. The defeated Jack Both, mayor for several years, lost by almost 1,000 votes. Last year in her first try for public office, Mrs. Forrester topped a field of 23 aldermanic candidates with 3,352 votes, a record-breaking total for an aldermanic candidate.

Leafs And Bruins Still Tied For Top Spot In Lac La Biche League

Even though four games were played this week, Leafs and Bruins were still tied for the top spot in the Lac la Biche Boys' Hockey league. The victories were gained at the expense of the two second division clubs, Red Wings and Canadiens.

On Wednesday Jimmy McCormick's Leafs downed Arnold Michetti's Canadiens by a score of 4-1. Jimmy McCormick and Donald Michetti scored two each for Leafs as Arnold Michetti picked up the lone Canadiens tally. In the other Wednesday fixture, Gordie McCormick picked up a hat trick as he paced his Bruins to a 3-0 shut-out over Jimmy Stewart's Red Wings.

In Saturday's games Gordie McCormick sunk four goals as he led his Bruins to a 7-1 victory over Canadiens. Orville Franchuk once again hit the scoring columns with two goals, his first since he was side-lined with a skate injury earlier in the season. Defenceman Jimmy Martin picked up the other Bruin marker while Canadien captain Arnold Michetti prevented his team from being shut-out.

BRUINS — Gordie McCormick Captain, Orville Franchuk, Bart Cunningfield, Donnie Stubberfield, Richard Hayduck, Jimmy Martin, Johnny Patterson, Gregory Coast Miles Graham.

CANADIENS— Arnold Michetti captain, Bruce Proctor, Mervin Schirrmacher, Mervin Duban, Danny Baglot, Bobby Cherkas, Edward Labby.

Danny Baglot and Edward Labby fought hard on the Canadiens' defence but were no match for the repeated rushes of Bruins' forward line. Richard Hayduk played a rock-bound defence position for Bruins, and breaking up most Canadiens' attacks.

In the other game featuring Red Wings and Leafs it appeared to be a Leaf's walk-away until the closing minutes of the last period. With two minutes to go the score was 4-1 in favor of Leafs. Red Wing captain Jimmy Stewart netted two quick goals to make it 4-3. The closing seconds of the game saw the whole Red Wing team ranged around the Leaf net banging away at the puck with Leaf goalie Donnie Dobson sprawled on the ice, literally hanging on by his teeth. Just as closing whistle sounded goalie Dobson was despatched to the doctor where a stitch was required to close a cut lip. His great display of courage and determination saved the game for Leafs as they stayed in to win 4-3. Red Wing captain Jimmy Stewart showed everyone that his team is not finished vet, even though it is at the bottom of the league standings. Stewart picked up a hat trick as he scored all three of his team's goals. Leaf markers were tallied by captain Jimmy McCormick and Donald Michetti each with 2. One of the hardest working players on the ice was Red Wing forward Telel Abougoush. Gerrard Langevin and Jimmy McMillan gave of their best for the Red Wing defence while goalie Joe 'Broda' Cunningham kept the score down to four goals, making many fine saves. A Leaf who can always be counted on to give of his best is Ronnie Onufrew a 60-minute performer. Andre Langevin was a solid rock on defence. He received valuable aid from Eugene Lobay.

RED WINGS— Jimmy Stewart captain, Foster Stewart, Telel Abougoush, Gerrard Langevin, Jimmy McMillan, Joe Cunningham.

LEAFS — Jimmy McCormick, Ronnie Onufru, Donald Michetti, Eugene Lobay, Andre Langevin, Donnie Dobson, Steve Chernychyn, Laverne Southwick.

As a result of these games both Bruins and Leafs are at the top of the league with 22 points. Bruins have 10 wins two ties and four losses, whereas Leafs have nine wins, four ties and three losses. Canadiens are in third spot, a game which will be a tie-breaker for league leadership.

Wednesday's games were refereed by Victor Michetti while George Blair was referee on Saturday. Scorekeeper was Harlan Martin.

DISTRICT AGRICULTURIST NOTES

By J. S. LORE

Medical agents alone can never prevent nor control mastitis, says Dr. J. G. O'Donoghue, Extension Veterinarian, Alberta Department of Agriculture. It has always been necessary to practice rapid, sanitary milking procedures and good udder care management to help lessen the spread of the disease from cow to cow and to prevent udder irritation.

The drugs and antibiotics now available are highly effective against mastitis caused by streptococci. Indeed these products have reduced the general incidence of this type of mastitis but at the same time, staphylococcus mastitis has increased. The antibotics are only partially effective against staphylococci, so herd control measures are as important as ever.

In the winter months in Alberta, chilling of the udder is a common source of trouble. Care should be taken to provide adequate bedding and to watch that cows stanchioned next to barn doors are not in a direct draught or chilling wind.

While there will always be sudden, acute cases of mastitis, usually resulting from udder injury, the incidence of the disease in a herd can be kept low by good management. It is always best to control mastitis on a herd basis.

When the herd history discloses numerous cases of either acute or chronic mastitis, hygienic practices, such as the following, are indicated:

1. Heifers should be milked first, then clean cows, and finally mastitis cows.
2. Disinfecting the hands and teat cups before milking each cow is recommended.
3. Cows should be milked regularly and thoroughly and stripped by machine.
4. Teat injuries may be avoided by furnishing adequate bedding and room.
5. Cows that do not respond to treatment are to be sold.

If any aqueous or parenteral chemotherapeutic agent is administered, the milk should not be used for human food for 24 hours after the last injection has been made. When an antibiotic in oil is infused into the udder, or when a repository form is injected, the milk collected from the cow for at least 72 hours following treatment should not be used for human consumption.

THE Homemaker

By Doris Montalbetti

What is "Extension Service" or further, what does the District Home Economist do, anyway? When that question or questions comes to mind, what kind of an answer presents itself? I'm sure we District Home Economists would shudder in our boots hearing some of the ideas people entertain about us. Maybe I can clarify the situation, if it needs clarifying—read on.

Before I became involved in extension work my idea of what it consisted wa spretty vague. My reply to what the Agricultural Extension service was didn't come near this definition—"Bringing to the farm, and the farm family the technique and skills that make for greater efficiency, less work, more fruitful employment of talents, the wise use of nature's resources and the development of better living." Sounds pretty fancy and perhaps vague but isn't really—the long and the short of the D.H.E.'s job—to improve the standard of homemaking and farm living. If the farm family is going to make use of the D.H.E. then they must have a clear idea of what she's trained to do and what services she offers.

It is my feeling that the ladies of this district don't make use of the D.H.E.'s services. Never a day goes by when there aren't at least 10 men into the office consulting the District Agriculturalist. But how many women ever use the D.H.E. to this extent? As it is there's one D.H.E. servicing four or five districts and there'll be even less if the women don't use the service more. If they did more consultation, there's a possibility that we would have a D.H.E. in every district.

We're not here to entertain ladies at their club meetings, not that a club demonstration doesn't have merit. Don't take offence ladies, just ask yourself how much you remember from the last lecture or demonstration? The meeting gives the D.H.E. a chance to meet you and introduce to you the services she offers. There must be individual response to justify the effort. Think it over.

Fur Prices Vary At Market . . .

brought from $5 to $27. Approximately 90 percent of 30,000 muskrat pelts were sold from 44 cents to $1.20. More than 80,000 squirrel brought from 10 cents for spoils to 75 cents. Twelve thousand ermine drew from 30 cents to $5.10 per pelt. Beaver were sold from $4 to $22.50. Lynx sales brought $3 to $12.75.

When each producer's pelts reach for uniformity of quality, size and color in separate bundles, each bundle is assigned an estimated value by the broker. Producers who are unsatisfied with this estimated market price have the right to reserve a low bid.

All pelts to be offered for sale are arranged according to lot and catalogued. Two or three days prior to the sale, buyers examine the furs and note the lot and catalogue number of those they are interested in. They are then prepared to offer a price for the furs. Auction bidding is conducted by signals. Tug of an ear lobe, a stroke of the chin or other actions seemingly unsignificant to a bystander, will tell the auctioneer the buyer raises the bid. Lots are sold to the highest bidder unless the bid is lower than the broker's estimated price or the producers' reserve bid. In the event a bid is not accepted, the furs are placed in cold storage to await more favorable market conditions. Red fox, for example, have been kept for as long as six years.

In addition to conducting sales, brokerage firms are trade centres for information on market conditions, new breeds and types of various furbearing animals, and other information pertinent to the fur industry.
